Laird Wants Missile Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some key Pentagon officials, concerned because Russia is pushing its missile buildup, favor expanding the Safeguard anti-missile system.

No final decision has yet been made on whether to include money for such an expansion in the new defense budget, now virtually ready for submission to Congress later this month.

A move to expand the anti-missile project beyond the present limited first phase would almost certainly meet strong opposition in the Senate, where the administration's Safeguard program barely survived last summer.

Also, some authorities are concerned about the effect an expansion would have on the arms limitation talks due to get down to hard bargaining in April.

But top administration officials are strongly influenced in their thinking by intelligence information that the Russians are continuing their deployment of the huge SS9 missile on what one source called "a methodical basis."

The SS9, which can hurl a single 25-megaton warhead or three 5-megaton warheads, is considered a threat to knock out U.S. Minuteman missiles in a possible surprise attack and thus destroy much of the U.S. deterrent.

According to current reports, the Russians have more than 250 of the SS9 missiles operational or under construction.

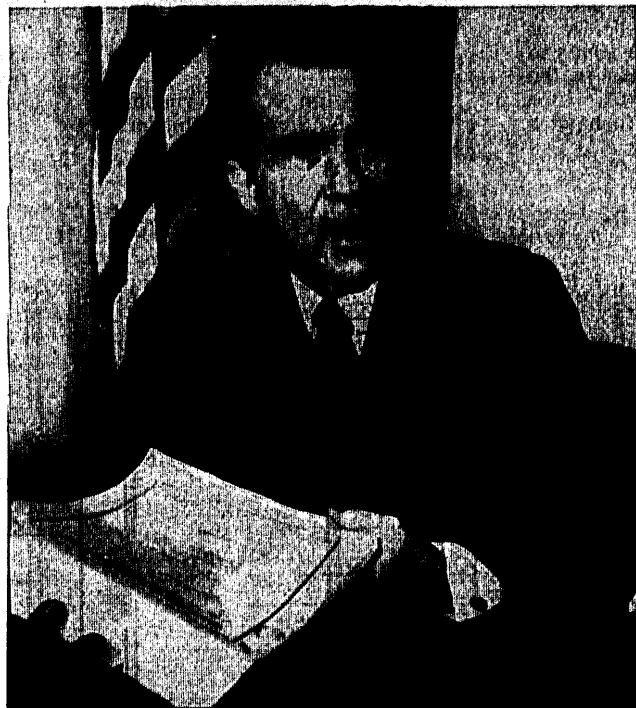

This is an increase over Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's estimate of more than 230 last May.

Laird has warned Congress that if the Russians continue installing the SS9 at the present rate, they could mount about 420 by the 1974-1975 period. And, with expected accuracy improvement, they probably could destroy 95 per cent of the 1,000 Minutemen in underground launch silos. After months of heavy battling, Congress approved a "phase one" deployment of the Safeguard missile defense at two Minuteman bases in North Dakota and Montana.

The Pentagon can be expected to ask for another $900 million in the new defense budget to continue with phase one, which is designed to get the two ABM sites in shape to protect Minuteman missiles at Malmstrom Air Force Base, Montana, and Grand Forks Air Force Base, North Dakota, by 1974. Funds also could be included for acquiring land for additional sites.

Like other weapons systems, the cost of the Safeguard is going up because of inflation. Laird has said that the full cost of the phase one Safeguard program already has risen from $4,185,000,000 as of last March to $4,462,000,000, based on December prices.

PRESIDENT NIXON Friday in Washington signed the most far-reaching tax bill since the enactment of the income tax in 1913, but indicated he would ask for new revenue raising legislation or cut government spending to curb its inflationary impact. ## Cities Taking Steps Against Pollution

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS President Nixon says New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles might soon become "unfit to live in" if they do not soon curb the growing menace of impure air and water.

What have these cities been doing about pollution? New York claims to have reduced the sulphur dioxide content of its air by 500,000 tons a year—or 56 per cent. Referring to blankets of stagnant polluted air that have claimed lives in some areas in the past, the city's environmental protection administrator, Merrill Eisenbud, said: "We have reduced the problem of this happening about to the vanishing point."

Philadelphia is spending $250 million on a system to monitor the quality of the air its residents breathe—polluted as it is by utilities, oil refineries and city incinerator and sewage treatment plants.

In Los Angeles, the chief problem of impure air revolves around the nearly 4 million motor vehicles that contribute to its periodic smogs. But a control program has been outlined to attack auto emissions, which constitute 90 per cent of the city's air pollution.

Thursday Nixon set up a Council on Environmental Quality, saying that pollution soon may make New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles not fit for humans.

A survey revealed these conditions in the three cities: New York—The reduction in sulphur dioxide the Department of Air Resources said, was achieved by requiring that fuels be 99 per cent sulphur free. The amount of dirt in the air has been reduced by 20,000 tons a day, or 22 per cent, the department added, by requiring the use of cleaner fuels—low sulphur oil, natural gas and steam.

In addition, the city has shut down three large municipal incinerators and is pressing in court over real estate industry opposition to require the city's 30,000 apartment building oil burners to be equipped with air pollution prevention devices. If the city wins in court, Eisenbud predicted great improvement in the quality of the air by 1972.

The Department of Water Resources said New York currently is engaged in the largest sewer and water waste treatment plant program in its history. Upon completion of this $1-billion program by 1975-76, all of the city's 1.3 billion daily gallons of waste water will be subjected to high-efficiency treatment. This is a goal dating to 1930, when almost all the city's waste was dumped into the Hudson and East rivers. Thirteen treatment plants now are in operation, with two new ones on the drawing board.

The Sanitation Department claims to be keeping pace with the problem of removing six million tons of trash a year from the city's streets. New landfills are the key to the disposal problem. One drawback is an increase in the number of cars abandoned on city streets. Eisenbud would like to see a federal law making auto manufacturers responsible for the disposal of these derelicts.

Mayor John V. Lindsay has announced that the city is undertaking a leading role in fighting auto exhaust pollution. In process are purchases of experimental automobiles powered by electricity, steam, liquefied natural gas, liquefied petroleum and compressed natural gas. In addition, the city plans to experiment in the near future with electric buses.

CDC Denies Danger Of Flu Epidemic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government influenza sleuths, reiterating confidence the United States will be spared any nationwide epidemic this winter, said Friday they're still trying to determine why six states were essentially by-passed by the wave of Hong Kong flu that hit the nation in 1968.

Disease detectives of the U.S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga., said in telephone interviews that if they could solve the puzzle, it could have worldwide significance.

The six states involved in the riddle are Wisconsin, Nebraska

Agnew Visits Formosa Reassures Chinese

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew would be told that Nationalist China "fears growth of the U.S. tendency to compromise or appease in the matter of the Chinese Communists."

The vice president's reassurance to the Nationalists that the United States intends to live up to its treaty commitments came in a statement shortly after he arrived from Vietnam. Thousands of Chinese lined Taipei's streets, waving paper American flags and swirling around Agnew's car with brightly colored 40-foot paper dragons.

In his statement at Sung Shan Military Airport, and later in talks with Nationalist Chinese leaders, Agnew stressed that the Nixon doctrine of Asian self-reliance does not mean the United States has any intention of abandoning its treaty commitments.

But in a conversation with reporters en route from Vietnam, Agnew said Communist China "can't be ignored." Recent U.S. efforts to ease trade restrictions, he added, were taken in the hope they will "lead to additional steps by the Chinese Communists to lessen the terrible tensions that exist in this part of the world."

"The United States should not sit still in a stance of armed preparedness and make no initiatives to develop an atmosphere that will allow us to reduce the amount of military spending and use some of the money in some of the programs that are so desperately needed in the areas of the environment and the cities and the like at home."

But the easing of trade barriers, along with the Senate's action last month in rejecting $54.5 million for Nationalist China to buy new jet fighters, has caused considerable concern among senior members of the Nationalist government. An editorial in Friday's English-language China News said Agnew would be told that Nationalist China "fears growth of the U.S. tendency to compromise or appease in the matter of the Chinese Communists."

Agnew's major formal sessions were a meeting Friday afternoon with Vice President C. K. Yen and a conference Saturday with President Chiang Kai-shek.

Chiang gave a formal state dinner Friday night for Agnew and his wife, who rejoined the vice presidential party here after remaining in the Philippines while Agnew made his 24-hour visit to Vietnam.

The dinner featured Chinese food served Western style. Mrs. Chiang, who was in an automobile accident in August, did not attend but the Agnews visited her for 20 minutes before the dinner. Guests included top government officials, members of Agnew's party and Sen. and Mrs. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who have been visiting here.

Before the dinner, Agnew and Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, the astronaut who is traveling with him, presented President Chiang with moon rocks and a Chinese Nationalist flag that traveled to the lunar surface with Apollo 11 last July.

President Chiang led separate toasts to President Nixon and Agnew, saying he expects his talks with Agnew to have an important bearing on future developments in this area and thanking the American people for their assistance to his country. On the plane en route to Taipei, Agnew said: "China is a country of 800 million people. They can't be ignored, but attempting to begin a meaningful dialogue with them does not lessen our desire and our conviction that the Republic of China government must be protected in accordance with our stated treaty obligations."

"These steps that have been taken with Communist China are just baby crawling motions. All that's involved is a very small exercise in allowing greater communication and a very small amount of trade initiative, and we'll just see how they react to it."

Hoover Raps Left, Black Militants

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover suggested Friday that New Left and militant black groups are "encouraged and inflamed from without" in a violent campaign against the government.

He accused the Black Panther party of ambushing policemen, and he sought to link the huge antiwar rally here last Nov. 15 with "international Communist elements."

The charges came in Hoover's report on FBI operations during 1969. It was issued one day after the longtime FBI director marked his 75th birthday.

Assailing what he called the New Left movement, Hoover said "America today is struggling with forces from within, encouraged and inflamed by forces from without, as it strives to retain its position as the most progressive, civilized nation in the world."

The movement underwent a marked change during the past year, he said, and many groups now advocate violent revolution.

Hoover blamed New Left groups, and particularly the Students for a Democratic Society, for violence on college campuses during the year. He said there have been 16 incidents of arson on campuses, two bombings and more than 350 arrests since last September.

Turning to the Communist party, USA, Hoover said its 50th anniversary celebration during 1969 was "a muted one which belittled the current status of the party." But he said the fortunes of the U.S. Communist organization are now on the upswing.

"While all the problems facing party leadership have not been eliminated, the elimination of factionalism within the party is seen as a strong indication that many other problems will be solved," he said.

Hoover suggested the party will attempt to expand its influence in the antiwar movement through Arnold Johnson, its public relations director and a member of the executive committee of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam.

Besides Johnson, he said, a number of members of the New Mobilization's steering committee "are, or have been, affiliated with old-line Communist groups, and they are coordinating their activities with international Communist elements."

J. EDGAR HOOVER

Releasing figures showing more than 100 attacks on police by black extremists in the past six months, Hoover said "extremist, all-Negro, hate-type organizations, such as the Black Panther Party, continued to fan the flames of riot and revolution during 1969."

He listed seven police officers killed and more than 120 injured during the confrontations, but gave no figures on the number of casualties among the militant Negroes.

HEW Clears Itself Of Blacklisting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced Friday the dismantling of elaborate security clearances for part-time advisers and consultants that spawned unofficial blacklists of politically suspect scientists.

The key change strips the HEW Office of Internal Security of its power to bar scientists from department advisory panels and consultant jobs through pre-appointment investigation of suitability and loyalty.

Agency heads, with the approval of the HEW secretary, now will have the sole authority to appoint advisers on their professional suitability and competence alone.

Instead of undergoing elaborate pre-appointment loyalty checks by the security office, the adviser need only sign a loyalty affidavit required of all federal employees.

The changes, according to an outside study of HEW security clearances, will end an unconstitutional system that is overly expensive, ridden with blacklists, and "pock-marked by secrecy."

"No reasonable man would design the present system as it has evolved," said Harlan Reed

Ellis of Columbia University, whose two-month study recommended the overhaul that was adopted.

Scientific organizations and some members of Congress have accused HEW of barring advisers because of past brushes with congressional committees, left-wing political affiliation, and antiwar activities.

The HEW security system dates from the McCarthy anti-Communism crusade of the 1950s. The department's security office, for example, routinely has checked files of the House Committee on Internal Security—the renamed Committee on Un-American Activities—for information on prospective advisers.

The changes apply to advisers and consultants in non-sensitive areas—the main category for thousands of scientists who sit on prestigious HEW panels that determine the allocation of billions of dollars of government research funds.

Author Says Kennedy Was Not With Kopechne

BOSTON (AP) — A book published Friday contends that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was not with Mary Jo Kopechne in his car when the auto plunged into the water off Chappaquiddick Island and the secretary died. An inquest into Miss Kopechne's death is set to open next Monday.

Jack Olsen, a senior writer with Time, Inc., made the claim in a book called "The Bridge at Chappaquiddick," published by Little Brown & Co.

In Washington, a spokesman for Kennedy said the senator "is aware of this latest theory and, as before, does not feel it appropriate to discuss each new theory that is developed."

Olsen discounted Kennedy's version of the accident last July, saying, "No normal motorist could commit such a grievous error."

Kennedy, in a statement televised nationally, had said he was driving Miss Kopechne to the ferry to Edgartown, Mass., and lost his way. He said his car went off the bridge into a pond. He said he got free but could not rescue Mary Jo.

Olsen's book contends that when a deputy sheriff approached the car shortly after midnight, Kennedy got out of the vehicle and told Mary Jo to drive, fearing his presence with the girl would be misunderstood.

"She might not have taken time to readjust the seat so that her feet could reach the pedals comfortably," Olsen wrote. "At 5 feet 2, she was exactly one foot shorter than Kennedy; her own car was a Volkswagen, about half the size of an Oldsmobile 88, and most of her driving had been done on city streets."

Olsen theorized the girl was barely able to see over the dashboard and, unaware that the bridge veered to the left, drove straight—toppling into the water.

Deputy Sheriff Christopher Look Jr., has said he saw what he thinks was Kennedy's car about 12:45 a.m. with at least two persons inside, but said it moved down the road toward the bridge as he stepped toward it.

Miss Kopechne was a Washington, D.C., secretary who had been a campaign worker for Kennedy's brother, the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

She and five other women campaign workers had come to Chappaquiddick for a cookout at a rented cottage, attended also by Edward Kennedy and several of his colleagues and friends.

The girl's body was found in Kennedy's car in the morning of July 19, about the same time the senator went to the Edgartown police station to report the mishap—some 10 hours after he said it occurred.

He later pleaded guilty to a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and was sentenced in district court at Edgartown to two months in jail, suspended for a year.

The inquest into her death, which begins in Edgartown Monday, was delayed four months by a legal challenge of the ground rules for the proceeding, and an unsuccessful bid for an autopsy on her body, buried in Pennsylvania.

Olsen asserted that Kennedy gave his version of the accident in part because he "had a public image to consider" and because his wife was pregnant, already had two miscarriages and would be "upset by public insinuations" should a full disclosure be made.

The six states involved in the riddle are Wisconsin, Nebraska

Stalled In Lima

Hijackers Grounded

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The new year's first air hijackers were stalled here Friday on their mission to fly to Cuba with the two small daughters of a colleague jailed in Brazil. The plane they seized in Uruguay failed to start after a refueling stop.

The crew of the Brazilian jetliner said the battery used for turning over the starting mechanism went dead. A fresh battery for the twin-engine Caravelle was being flown here from Santiago, Chile. None was available here.

Inside the plane, five Brazilian revolutionaries—a pretty girl and four young men—held the crew and passengers at bay with guns and a package they said contained explosives.

The plane had 23 passengers and seven crew members when it was hijacked after taking off Thursday from Montevideo, Uruguay, for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Two elderly persons got off during a refueling stop in Buenos Aires, Argentina. The plane then went to Antofagasta, Chile, to take on more fuel before coming to Lima early Friday.

Ground crews refueled the aircraft and pilot Mario Amaral started one engine by using self-contained starter equipment. A Peruvian pilot at the airport said the equipment was good for one start.

The pilot then turned off the single engine and doused the lights in the cabin.

The woman hijacker and two of her male colleagues then came to the cockpit window and tossed down messages to newsmen and police at the airport.

A message to The Associated Press said: "We are going to Cuba, having among other missions, one to escort two children of 2 and 3 years of a combatant who today is under arrest and tortured in Brazil."

The message said the mother of the two girls was with them but it added that she, like the hijackers, would return to "fight in Brazil" after reaching Cuba.

The message did not identify the children, their mother or their father.

Peruvian police and newsmen surrounded the plane but the police showed no concern and made no effort to keep reporters and cameramen back from the aircraft in Lima.

The Clean Air Crisis

There was a grim bit of news from New York City the other day. A group created to fight air pollution confronted Christmas shoppers in Herald Square with signs that said: "This is an air pollution poison pocket. Danger. Breathe at your own risk."

That has its humorous overtones, but they give way to the serious import of this reminder that one of the city's highest pollution readings was made in this busy square faced by two enormous department stores. One gets to thinking that perhaps in the not very distant future this will have to be standard practice in big cities — warnings that this or that area is a "poison pocket" dangerous to health.

Reading about that "breathe at your own risk" sign in New York, one may fondly assume that most of the air in this broad land is still pure. That is an illusion. Specialists at the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center in Scotia, N.Y., say that the last pollution-free air in this country was detected near Flagstaff, Ariz., six years ago. A spokesman for the Research Center puts it thus: "We ran out of clean air, so to speak. For six years we have been looking for some in the remotest parts of the United States."

The message is clear: Air pollution is no longer a problem that only city dwellers need worry about. More and more, airborne poisons generated in the great population centers are spilling out into the adjoining countryside—in some cases for hundreds of miles.

This phenomenon has become so prevalent that some scientists now think air throughout the Northern Hemisphere will be dangerously poisoned by 1990 unless the present trend is halted. That trend, in starkest terms, is that air pollution is increasing much faster than the air can cleanse itself.

It is wearisome, no doubt, to be reminded of this again and again. Such reminders are, however, a necessary part of alerting the public to the urgency of this threat. We are no longer dealing with some hazard of the vaguely distant future. It is not an exaggeration so say that in this highly industrialized and transportation-oriented society we stand on the verge of grave peril. Whatever is being done to curb air pollution is not enough. Efforts by industry and government alike must be redoubled if we are to avert disaster.

The Agony Of Biafra

Whatever the rights and wrongs of the political dispute between Nigeria and the breakaway government of Biafra, it is beyond question that the Biafrans have been subjected to almost unbearable suffering. This is reaffirmed in a report by a group of Norwegian university scientists who made a study of conditions there.

Since the civil war began two and a half years ago, it has been disclosed, some 40 per cent of all Biafran children between two and four years old have died. They have died, for the most part, of hunger — ten times as many, the Norwegians' report says, as have died on both sides in the Vietnamese War.

The death toll does not tell the whole story of the terrible thing that is happening in this African territory. Another dimension of the tragedy is that malnutrition in the early years of childhood brings permanent mental damage which cannot be repaired later through an improved diet. The grim conclusion is that in a few years Biafra may have the world's biggest group of mentally retarded children. The saying that war is hell applies with particular force in that unhappy land.

U.S. Space Program May Suffer Broad Cutbacks

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A decision to shut down—and possibly auction off—a major new research center even before it gets into full operation points to possible broad cutbacks in the nation's space program.

"We are not going to have a larger budget, congressional action on taxes has caused us to be cut back, and as a result, we have to find ways of economizing," said administrator Thomas O. Paine of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

First victim of the economy axe was NASA's ultra-modern Electronics Research Center at Cambridge, Mass., a 29-acre complex of six buildings now nearing completion at a cost of $36 million.

Some 100 specialists in advanced electronics research already have been installed in the new facilities. An additional 750 are housed in temporary rented quarters. NASA had planned to invest about $60 million and employ several thousand persons to make this the heart of government study programs in the electronics field.

In its annual report earlier this year NASA credited the Cambridge center with:

—A discovery that the electrical output of certain semi-conductors such as gallium antimonide was extremely sensitive to applied pressure. This led to development of a minute device transforming pressure into an electric signal, which made it possible to measure, from inside the heart of an anesthetized dog, details of blood pressure variations during the heart's pumping cycle.

—Developing and testing an instrument to measure with unprecedented accuracy eye pupil size, blink rate and direction of gaze, without attachment to the subject. NASA said the device should be useful in determining the best arrangements for cockpit instruments, in measuring mental alertness, in studying how children learn to read, and in gun and camera aiming systems.

Paine flew to Boston early last week to make the closure announcement.

Julian Scheer, NASA assistant administrator for public affairs, said the decision to shut down the center was reached only last Saturday.

"We decided to move quickly, and let the employees know of the decision, before they heard rumors about it," Scheer explained.

Scheer said it was certain additional changes would be made in NASA programs, but they are not to be announced until President Nixon has sent his budget to the Congress late in January.

He added that the prospective changes are related both to economies and to the re-orientation of the space program.

Scheer said some of the Cambridge center contracts totaling $25 million a year would be canceled, while some work would be transferred to other facilities.

Paine said the closing was in keeping with last September's report of the President's Space Task Group.

"In line with their findings, we are being forced to cut down broad electronic research coverage and focus much more on the specific programs, and carry out the electronic research specifically tied to the individual programs," Paine said.

As to the future of the Cambridge center, Paine said NASA would try first to determine whether other government agencies could use the buildings.

If they cannot, he said, the structures will go on the auction block.

Francis W. Sargent, Republican governor of Massachusetts, has called the decision to close the center a major mistake.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, Massachusetts Democrats, said they would meet with Paine to oppose the NASA action.

Dr. Downs-Burr Under Bureaucracy's Blanket

By PRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Out in Chicago there is a slightly built fellow named Dr. Anthony Downs, who likes to shatter myths. On a recent day he offered discomfort to the Census Bureau, to Vice President Agnew, HUD Secretary George Romney, urbanologist John Gardner and assorted others.

Downs works for the Real Estate Research Corp. As senior vice president and treasurer, he seems to spend a great deal of time questioning other people's assumptions.

Once he spoke for a full day to the Kerner commission on civil disorders. One member, Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, calls him "brilliant." His latest outing was as panelist on state and urban problems at the winter conference of the Republican governors.

For openers, Downs told these gentlemen that census forecasts of 100 million more Americans by the year 2000 (a kind of midpoint between the bureau's high and low predictions) are all wet.

The real prospect, said Downs, is closer to 42 million more—lower even than the lowest official forecast of 62 million. He founds this judgment on his assertion that U.S. fertility rates have dropped 30 per cent since a peak in 1957. His estimate of population growth for 1969 is one per cent, lowest gain rate since 1940.

Downs thinks he can also chop the ground out from under men like Gardner who are saying a high proportion of America's added millions of people have got to be put in hundreds of altogether new cities. He just says it is not going to happen.

For support he looks to Great Britain, which has had 30 years' experience in building new cities under favorable laws. In 1968, says Downs, the British started only 2.5 per cent of new housing in new towns, while 97.5 per cent of the starts were in established places.

Here is one for Romney, the ex-manufacturer of automobiles who has been nobly trying to "industrialize" housing production methods in hope of getting faster, cheaper housing.

According to Downs, even if such methods succeed, they will not significantly reduce housing costs. His word on this for the governors:

"The two most important costs in housing are land and money, not construction costs. Land will keep rising in cost, and money—which has risen fastest of all recently—will not go down much, if at all."

He says flatly that cheap new housing is an unrealistic dream and we might as well forget the idea.

It cost so much, he adds, that more than half of U.S. households cannot afford either to buy or rent any kind of new housing unit—except a mobile home—without laying out too high a proportion of their income.

Downs ripped off one of the conservatives' favorite security blankets when he blasted what he calls the "self-help solution" myth applied to the poor and the black—the notion that all they need to do is get a job and help themselves.

Nearly half of all poor Americans, he says, cannot earn their way out of poverty because they are either old, disabled, young children in households headed by women, or the women caring for such children.

"They can get out of poverty only if we give them money—our money," said Downs.

He also goes after that part of the "self-help" myth which leads many now middle-class Americans to say they made it the hard way, without government aid, and the poor should do the same.

Fact is, adds Downs, that they not only did not make it on their own but are still getting subsidies in the form of aid to the colleges, highways, oil imports, farm products, etc.

Ann Landers:

Stewardess Resents Public's Insults, Abuse

Dear Ann Landers: I am a stewardess for one of the leading commercial airlines and I'm thoroughly disgusted with the insults and abusive treatment we are expected to tolerate from the public.

Most stewards are pleasant, well trained, and they try hard to be conscientious. They are interested in the comfort, safety and well-being of the passengers. It burns me up when passengers snap their fingers and yell, "Hey waitress, how about some more ice..." They treat us as if we were barmaids. I'd like to see the doll at their local pub evacuate 103 passengers in 90 seconds.

What I resent most is the completely false and highly publicized notion that every stew is shackled up with the pilot or the richest passenger in the first-class section.

I am not suggesting that all stewards are vestal virgins, but if we played around half as much as people say we do, we wouldn't have enough strength to hang up a coat.

The flying public can have all the coffee or tea they want, but they can't have me—or any of the 30 stewards I know personally.—Sally

Dear Sally: As a frequent traveler, I agree that most stewards are efficient, hard-working and try hard to please the passengers. Your letter says something that needed to be said and I'm happy to print it.

Dear Ann Landers: Why did you give a nod of approval to the young bride-to-be who said, "If people can't say anything good about marriage, I wish they would keep their big mouths shut."

There are plenty of people with rotten marriages who work overtime to create a nice picture for outsiders. We lived next door to such a couple and you wouldn't believe what went on. The four of us went to Chicago for the weekend last fall and we had adjoining hotel rooms.

About midnight they started to argue. I've never heard such filthy language in all my life. What's more, "Mr. Wonderful" knocked "Sweetie Pie" around the room until 3:30 a.m.

The next morning when we met for breakfast, "Sweetie Pie" was smiling bravely through a fat lip. One eye was swollen shut. "I fell over some luggage," she explained.

Such hypocrisy is nauseating. Furthermore, it is dangerous. When I last saw this woman she was bragging to a neighbor about her lovely husband. The poor thing is skinny as a rat and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. And YOU call it "loyalty." How can you?—Barbville

Dear Barb: A woman whose husband rearranges her bridge-work and tells the neighbors what a great guy she has, is sick. The gross disparity between reality and the picture she presents is bound to make her sicker. This is not loyalty. It is pathology.

My beef is with wives who launder the family linen in public. The woman who runs down her husband to her relatives, the children, friends or neighbors is, in my opinion, disloyal. If you can find a better word, I'll buy it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Law For Today

Q. I noticed that my lease contains a "not responsible for accidents" clause in the lease. Is such a clause binding?

A. Generally, yes. In 1959 Illinois Legislature enacted a law which made such exculpatory, or non-liability, clauses void. However, the Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that the 1959 law was invalid because it was not worded to apply to all types of landlords and thereby violated the state constitution.

Thus, an exculpatory clause may be binding on the tenant and his family. However, such a clause does not reduce the landlord's liability for injuries incurred by other persons.

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3—Born today, you are a lover of change. In your work, in your residence, in your leisure-time activities, even in your companions you need change, variability. You will have to be very much on your guard, however, that in indulging this trait of yours, this desire for constant movement, you do not make enemies of friends—a result of your activities which would be far more painful than any other. Friends, after all, cannot be traded in like old cars! You are not one whose nature is completely unified. You do not approach life with fully proportioned ambition and talent, for instance, or complementary needs and desires. Often what you long for is not the same as what you ought to have, just as goals set for yourself are at times either far above or far below the limits of your abilities. Disappointment may frequently be yours—but so will excitement. Will-power and determination are two things which you must work to develop if you are to know the success that your talents indicate is possible for you. Your inclination to stop when you meet an obstacle or to change projects midstream must be overcome at least to the point where you are able to complete what you begin. Then you will know results of labor. To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Sunday, January 4
CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)—Don't be surprised should a goal of long standing suddenly seem possible to gain within a short time. Take action.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Initiate new projects with the help of young people. You would be wise to become involved with others in community affairs.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—The Pisces who acts according to mature decisions will be able to overcome present obstacles to good relationships with others.
ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Morning worship should bring intuitive knowledge of your relationship with others. Ask for spiritual help.
TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Take care that today's activities are not the sort that will bring you into entanglements with neighbors. Stick close to home.
GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—A day when you should find good use for the reserves of energy you pride yourself on. Keep the home fires burning.
CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Wisdom and determination should take you where you want to go today. Morning devotions clear the air in many ways.
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—You should not have to be told if and when another is in need of your services. Keep your eyes and ears open to the problem.
VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Be realistic about your chances of success on the present project and go on from there. Don't rely on dreams to move you forward.
LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Enjoy the benefits of recent labors. You are not required to share rewards with another—but it might be polite to do so.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Though Sunday, you would be wise to get household finances in order. Go over the budget with one who sees clearly what to do.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Secrets divulged to you are not yours to divulge to others. Keep what you know to yourself or regrets follow.

ARMY ORIENTED FRANKFORT, KY. (AP) - One of every six counties in Kentucky was named after an Army colonel.

ALL IN ONE SHOT SYDNEY (AP) - All on the one day, a Sydney dentist reports, he treated a 90 year-old woman, her doctor son, the doctor's daughter, and her nine-year-old son.

GOOD DEED CAERNARVON, Wales (AP) - Prince Charles, invested as Prince of Wales here in July, has made a "substantial" donation toward a fund for an 11-year-old boy injured in an explosion four days after the ceremony.

SUICIDAL TENDENCIES PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) - Subconscious suicidal tendencies in drivers are to blame for many car accidents, believes Prof. Johan Garbers, Dean of Education at Port Elizabeth University. Garbers said many people would never consciously commit suicide. Driving makes it possible for them to do so without thinking, however, and such drivers are involved in twice as many accidents as any other type. Garbers suggested psychiatric treatment for drivers frequently involved in accidents.

HOME TO CIRCUS TALENT BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) - Bloomington's tradition of providing talent for circuses still is living under the big top. The Flying Cencellos and the Flying Wards, illustrious names as aerialists, still perform duties on the sawdust trail. Billy Ward is a Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey clown and Eddie Ward is a circus train supervisor. The former aerialists remember the days when 17 flying acts were quartered in Bloomington during the off season.

INDUSTRIAL FRAGRANCE WASHINGTON (AP) - The magic worked by a modern alchemist called the industrial perfumer keeps American products smelling and selling better than hot dogs at the World Series.

Besides enlivening soap and deodorants, fragrances add whiffs of pleasure to floor waxes, diapers, and lighter fluids. The perfumes and aromatics used in commercial goods far exceed the quantity applied at vanity tables, the National Geographic Society says.

Department stores enclose scented inserts with the monthly bill to dull the pain and inspire new purchases. Textile mills regularly scent-treat new fabrics; one formula suggests "the pleasant ozone smell of a hayfield after a thunderstorm."

FORMER PASTOR VISITS BROWN CO. MT. STERLING - Rev. and Mrs. Vernon W. McDormand and daughters, Dorothy and Frances, are visiting here with their son and brother, Kenneth, and family. Rev. McDormand formerly served the Mt. Sterling Christian church as pastor. He is now pastor of the Christian church in Monesses, Pennsylvania.

Marriage licenses were issued by Brown County Clerk here on Dec. 29 to William Gordon Versluis of Rock Island and Frances Antoinette Henninger of Mt. Sterling and on Dec. 30 to John Curtis VanGiesen, II, and Linda Louise Veith, both of Mt. Sterling.

SPACEL

Is there life on other planets in other galaxies out there? This is a question we ask with increasing frequency these days. When God made our world, was it the only one He fashioned?

We may never know. The answer may lie far in the future. But it is an enticing subject to speculate about.

Many fascinating subjects are being discussed today—in church. If this surprises you, it only goes to show that you haven't been attending church lately. To keep in touch with this challenging world, start going not only to regular services but to some of the special discussions in your church.

When will women, when engaged in performing the same ers up last night's paper off duties as a man, draw exactly a kitchen chair and throws it the same rate of pay for in the wastebasket. The poodle job? Recent court rulings aside, jumps playfully, tearing her this is still a far-too-common stockings and dumping the occurrence in the business wastebasket. After cleaning up the spilled coffee grounds, since she's down on the floor anyway, she decides she might as well hunt under the stove for...well, as you can see, she may NEVER get to the bathroom.

All women, whether they ever considered an abortion, whether or not they contemplate working at a job outside the home, should be not only interested but vocal on both these questions. And, speaking of work, how about the attitude that only the woman who reports in at a factory or an office has a job? But, concerned as we are with big questions, most of us would like answers to a lot of little questions. Why, for example, can a man announce, "I'm going to take a bath," and then merely take a bath? I am certain that if we solved only this puzzle, all the big problems would fall in domino fashion.

This whole business of taking a bath is not merely a question of life style. Instead, it reflects the complete difference in attitude of male and female.

Let us state the problem simply. He is sitting in the living room, reading a book. He yawns. He stretches. He looks across at his wife, says, "Guess I'll take a bath, Marge." Rising from his chair, he crosses the living room, goes directly through the dining room, side-steps sleeping poodle, strides through hallway, enters bathroom. He turns on the water, adjusts knobs for proper temperature, disrobes, bathes, turns off water, clothes himself. He picks up the living room, he backs up book, remarks, "That was refreshing."

Restating the problem, she is reading a book in the living

Today's hand represented a 13-IMP gain for the Dallas Aces. South became declarer at three no-trump at both tables. The seven of clubs was opened and taken by East's ace, with South dropping the five. The California East returned a club and Dallas scored 660 for making five-odd.

At the other table, Bobby Goldman shifted to the jack of hearts and continued with the six. Billy Eisenberg took his ten, thought awhile and continued the suit to set declarer one trick.

The hand caused considerable discussion in the post-match analysis by the Aces. The first question was whether or not South should have dropped the nine of clubs instead of the five. It was agreed that this play would have been read as an obvious false card and increased the chance of a shift to hearts.

Bobby Goldman explained that he had decided to shift to a heart because his experience was that, on this type of bidding, declarer always had the fourth suit stopped but did not always have too much in his own suit. He wondered if maybe the nine of hearts would not have been a better lead than the jack. He was not going to lead the heart six, since that would put his partner on lead for the second heart.

The last question concerned his second play. Should he have continued with the king? There was also discussion of Billy's first play. He dropped the four! It was agreed that the ten would have been a slightly better play.

As for Bobby's second heart play, opinions were divided but everyone felt that Bobby deserved considerable credit for playing hearts as he did.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding four hearts, your partner has bid four no-trump over your three spades. You show your one ace and he bids five no-trump. What do you do now?

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The deterioration in relations between business and customer was one of the more serious failings of the 1960s. The needed improvement will be the primary challenge for scores of industries in the 1970s.

Nobody needs to be reminded that, despite the affluence of the past decade, customers were anything but satisfied. Amid their material treasures they felt ignored, helpless, frustrated, and they screamed to be heard.

Their shouts were heard in Washington, and the 1960s will be remembered as a decade when the federal government moved forcefully into the marketplace. Now the question is how far will regulation go.

The situation has many explanations. Some businessmen claim the problems began when consumers demanded more. Many consumers claim the business machine grew too large and unresponsive. Both insist that the confusion resulted from rising aspirations colliding head-on with rising prices.

Perhaps some of each was involved. Better educated consumers did begin reading guarantees and discovered failings in them. And they questioned the workmanship, safety and servicing of many products. Even the need for the products at all.

Evidence abounds also that business failed to serve as well as it claimed or hoped to serve. Ask the person who tried to return damaged goods, get an installment credit bill corrected, obtain immediate servicing of a gadget.

No doubt either that, flushed with big paychecks, many Americans raised their hopes too high. The paycheck looked big until they matched it with prices and found the increase in purchasing power was partly an illusion.

Did America—everyone from the hourly paid worker to the biggest governmental unit or corporation—overextend itself in the 1960s? Did it attempt to accomplish more than it was able to manage efficiently or gracefully?

Many people think so. Others are convinced that the disparity between claim and accomplishment, between promise and result, between appearance and reality, was brought about more by carelessness and callousness than by inability.

For several years much of America refused to believe that things were not as they were said to be. When housewives rebelled against rising prices they were viewed initially as impudent, spoiled and seeking attention.

When Ralph Nader began his consumer crusades he was thought by some in business to be like an irritating insect at a picnic—to be swatted so that events could proceed in comfort.

The housewives and Ralph Nader and other crusaders were merely the advance guard of a much more firmly and broadly based consumer movement that still could be merely in the formative stage.

Before the 1960s were finished, even the Chamber of Commerce of the United States had joined. Many businesses were setting up machinery for responding to complaints. Safety and quality were being checked more closely. Guarantees were being simplified.

However, government already had moved into the marketplace with regulations that some businesses find difficult to observe, and the question that will be answered in the 1970s is this: Can America's corporations and institutions respond to the nation's demands quickly enough to avoid regulations that might tend to strangle free enterprise? Or is the system too rigid to change?

Did America—everyone from the hourly paid worker to the biggest governmental unit or corporation—overextend itself in the 1960s? Did it attempt to accomplish more than it was able to manage efficiently or gracefully?

Many people think so. Others are convinced that the disparity between claim and accomplishment, between promise and result, between appearance and reality, was brought about more by carelessness and callousness than by inability.

For several years much of America refused to believe that things were not as they were said to be. When housewives rebelled against rising prices they were viewed initially as impudent, spoiled and seeking attention.

When Ralph Nader began his consumer crusades he was thought by some in business to be like an irritating insect at a picnic—to be swatted so that events could proceed in comfort.

The housewives and Ralph Nader and other crusaders were merely the advance guard of a much more firmly and broadly based consumer movement that still could be merely in the formative stage.

Before the 1960s were finished, even the Chamber of Commerce of the United States had joined. Many businesses were setting up machinery for responding to complaints. Safety and quality were being checked more closely. Guarantees were being simplified.

However, government already had moved into the marketplace with regulations that some businesses find difficult to observe, and the question that will be answered in the 1970s is this: Can America's corporations and institutions respond to the nation's demands quickly enough to avoid regulations that might tend to strangle free enterprise? Or is the system too rigid to change?

When Your Builder Gets Robbed, Who Pays?

By CARLTON SMITH and RICHARD PUTNAM PRATT
When thieves made off with more than $450 worth of construction material recently, a Virginia homeowner who had contracted for a detached garage to be built on his property got an expensive lesson in the legal niceties of who gets stuck for the loss.

What made it hurt, said the victim, was that he didn't even know he had owned any material—much less that it was missing—until he was told he'd have to pay for it. Which he did, because of a point concerning builders' contracts that you might want to file away against the day you're doing some building or remodeling.

With his usual thoroughness, this homeowner had been careful to see that all reasonable risks were covered by insurance, when the agreement with the contractor was drawn and signed. He had obtained, on advice of his insurance broker, liability coverage of his own in addition to that carried by the contractor. His new garage, even before the foundation was laid, was protected against fire, storms, vandalism, malicious mischief, low-flying aircraft and other common hazards.

Nobody thought to mention insurance against theft of materials at the construction site, possibly because it's virtually nonexistent. It's as though you don't spend much time talking about how to keep unicorns out of the garden.

"I must confess I didn't think about it, myself," said the homeowner later. "But if I had, I'd certainly have assumed that materials were the contractor's worry. It still seems to me that a contract, logically, provides for the builder, on his part, to construct a garage to certain specifications. When he has done that, he has performed his part of the contract."

"When I've paid him for it, and acquired possession, I've performed my part. Why do I own anything until then? I'm buying a finished garage, not a back yard full of materials—no?"

No. Not in this particular case.

15 Utills 112.25 up 2.17
65 Stocks 267.36 up 4.40

materials were delivered on a Friday afternoon. The property owner and his family already had left on a weekend trip. Some time between then and Sunday afternoon, everything disappeared. The homeowner got the news on Monday from the contractor.

His expressions of sympathy were cut short by the news that this one was on him. It was because of the form of the contract.

When there's a lump-sum contract, specifying a fixed dollar amount to be paid to the contractor on completion of the work, construction materials are the property of the contractor and their theft is his responsibility.

When there's a cost-plus contract—ownership of materials and responsibility for loss are the owner's. As the law sees such a contract, it says, "I am hiring you, the builder, simply as a laborer. Here's the lumber; nail it together, and you'll be paid X percentage of its cost."

Cost-plus appeals to many who foot the bills as an arrangement whereby they can see what they're getting for their money and control costs. It can work that way, but be wary of a cost-plus contract if materials can't be kept under lock and key during construction or somehow securely safeguarded.

There's a good reason why insurers won't insure against loss from theft on the site. If it's possible for material to be stolen, it's very likely will be.

The authors are unable to answer personally individual questions. Questions of general interest will be answered when possible in future columns.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market began the New Year Friday with ring-a-ding-ding exuberance and bounded upward along a broad front.

Part of the reason for the healthy 8.84 point rise in the Dow Jones industrial average to 809.20—a 1.10 per cent gain—was the absence of year-end tax loss selling.

Friday's volume was moderate at 8.06 million shares, far less than the 19.38 million shares on Wednesday, the ninth heaviest in Big Board history. Stock markets were closed Thursday, New Year's day.

The rise was along a broad front. Of the 1,589 individual stocks traded on the New York exchange, advances outnumbered declines by 1,143 to 396.

The AP 60-stock average leaped 4.9 to 276.0, its largest daily gain since April 8, 1968, with industrials up 6.2, rails up 4.0, and utilities up 1.6.

Occidental Petroleum rose 1 1/2 to 26 1/2 on an active turnover. The company said Friday it planned to acquire Charter Co., a Florida based bank operator and owner of a mortgage company in Puerto Rico.

Copper companies apparently continued to benefit from price hikes announced earlier in the week. Phelps Dodge gained 2 1/2 to 52 1/2 and Kennecott rose 2 1/2 to 49 1/2.

Zurn industries was a gainer among companies involved in air and water-pollution control, apparently a reaction to a call by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, earlier this week for an independent government agency on pollution. Zurn rose 3 1/2 to 36.

Most-active on the Big Board was Consolidated Foods on a turnover of 135,900 shares, up 1/2 to 41 1/2.

Closing prices of other actives included Benguet, up 1 to 13 1/2; Bell Intercontinental, up 1 1/2 to 14 1/2; Campbell Soup, off 1/2 to 35 1/2; and Twentieth Century, up 1 1/2 to 20 1/2.

Prices moved sharply higher along a broad front on the American Stock Exchange as well.

The Amex price index jumped 44 cents to $26.71, the largest daily gain in some 5 months.

COMMODITIES CLOSE IRREGULAR, WEAK

CHICAGO (AP) — Commodity futures prices closed out the year on an irregular and generally weak tone on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Trade was limited to the first three days of the week. The session on Wednesday ended at noon and operations were to resume Monday.

When trade closed on Wednesday, wheat futures were 1/2 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel lower, March 1.47 1/2; corn was 1/2 lower to 1/2 higher, March 1.21 1/2; oats were 1/2 to 3/4 lower, March 63 1/2; rye, was 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher, March 1.12 1/2; and soybeans were 1/4 lower to 1/4 higher, January 2.46 1/2.

Dealings were mixed and public involvement appeared light. Volume was light also, typical of year-end sessions. The liquidation in grains and the soybean complex was generally of a tax-loss nature before the year's end, but there also appeared to have been some speculative liquidation and selling attributed to longs tired of holding positions.

Estimated Receipts

CHICAGO (AP) — (USDA) — Potatoes arrivals 42; on track 92; total U.S. shipments for Wednesday 433; Thursday 164; carlot track sales: Minnesota North Dakota round reds 3.25.

Big Ten Begins Wide-Open Race

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten's conference basketball season begins Saturday with defending champion and NCAA finalist Purdue a shaky choice in what looks like a wide-open title race.

In a fairly successful December campaign by the Big Ten against outsiders (49-37), Ohio State (7-1) and Illinois (7-2) emerged with slightly better records than Purdue (7-3) whose heralded Rick Mount still has to shake off effects of an early season leg injury.

The inaugural league round of the 14-game chase includes: Purdue, tabbed a potential champion in a preseason poll of Big Ten writers, at Iowa (4-4).

Ohio State, ranked No. 2 in the poll but which skipped Holiday tournament play, host to Minnesota (5-4).

Illinois, No. 3 choice and the Big Ten's best defensive club, at Wisconsin (4-4) for a regional TV matinee.

Michigan (4-4), led by Rudy Tomjanovich, last season's scoring runner-up to Big Ten champion Mount, at Northwestern (5-5).

And Michigan State (3-6), unveiling new coach Gus Ganakas, at Indiana (4-5), whose ailing coach Lou Watson is spelled by acting coach Jerry Oliver. This game also is a matinee.

For Purdue, whose Mount was smothered by St. Bonaventure in Tuesday's 91-75 Boilermaker title game loss in the Holiday Festival tournament at New York, the league opener at Iowa has been complicated by a discipline measure.

Boilermaker coach George King benched stellar Larry Weatherford and Bill Franklin, sophomore center, for this game because of curfew violation after the loss to the Bonnies in New York.

Mount, held to 19 points by St. Bonaventure, has a 26-point average for six games. That's far behind the record 35.2 average Rick posted last season in winning the Big Ten scoring crown a second straight year.

Michigan's Johnny Orr, one of four Big Ten coaches with no more than one season of conference experience, predicted Purdue will have a tough row to hoe without graduated Bill Keller and Herman Gilliam.

"This won't be a runaway race," said Orr, starting his second Wolverine season. "Right now, I might ride with Ohio State, but not if we and Illinois can start with road victories. In this tough league, you have to win them all at home and at least three on the road."

The newest conference coach, Ganakas moves into the Michigan State helm as successor to John Benington, who died last Sept. 10 of a heart attack. Like Orr, Bill Fitch of Minnesota and John Powless of Wisconsin are starting their second conference coaching seasons. Harvey Schmidt begins his third at Illinois a club which has yielded an average of only 63.8 points.

Fred Taylor of Ohio State is the dean of conference coaches, launching his 12th Buckeye campaign marred only, thus far by an 82-80 loss to giant-killing Ohio University.

JHS Hosts Senators Tonight

Jacksonville High school will be trying to protect its first winning streak of the season tonight when the Crimsons entertain Springfield High school in an 8 p.m. contest at the JHS Bowl.

The Crimsons have just returned from a triumphant trip to the 27th annual Centralia Holiday Tournament where they brought home the consolation bracket prize and now sport a 4-6 record. JHS lost 67-64 to host Centralia in the first game before coming back to nip Freeport 92-91 in overtime. Champaign Central 57-45 and Peoria Spalding 81-79.

Springfield, under new coach Norm Keefner, will be trying to stop a streak of their own. The Senators downed Taylorville in their opener but since have dropped seven straight, including a pair in the Edwardsville Tournament this week.

Keefner plans to start 6-2 junior John Beckman or 6-2 junior Tom Jansen and 6-0 senior Dan Bristol at the forwards, 6-4 senior Mike McAlpine at center and 5-7 Jim Edmonds and 5-9 senior Mike Tarr at the guards.

Jacksonville coach Frank Long, naturally pleased with his team's performance at Centralia, will open tonight with Jim Bonds and Tim Olson, both 6-0 sophomores, at the forwards, 5-10 senior Frank Lawrence and 6-1 senior Bob Chipman at the guards and 6-4 senior Chad Ormiston at center. Senior Steve Waltrip will probably be the top reserve.

Long has scouted Springfield High twice this season. "I saw them play slow ball against Lincoln, then lose to Eisenhower in an overtime," says Long. "I saw them play under two different situations so it's kind of hard to tell exactly what kind of team they are. When they play their normal game they evidently try to run the ball a little and play a man-to-man defense."

Ralph Simpson, regarded as a super sophomore on Michigan State's basketball team, made an impressive varsity debut. In the opening game this season against Eastern Kentucky, Simpson scored 36 points.

Browns Seek Exit Same As Entrance

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Cleveland Browns came to Minnesota Friday with ideas of leaving the National Football League's old conference like they came in—with a championship.

The Browns, who move from the National Conference to the American in the 1970 pro football merger, will be appearing in their 11th NFL championship game starting at 1 p.m. EST Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings.

Illini Hope To Start New Streak

CHAMPAIGN — Coach Harvey Schmidt's Illini hope to launch a new winning streak for the New Year Saturday afternoon against the Wisconsin Badgers in Madison in the Big Ten opener for both clubs. Tip off is 1:05 p.m. CST.

The Illini, after six straight wins, dropped two of three in the recent West Coast Classic and now are 7-2 for the season. Wisconsin will take a 4-4 record into the contest, dropping a 64-43 decision to Marquette in the finals of the Milwaukee Classic after upsetting a fine Utah State club, 81-74, in first round play.

Schmidt may have found a new floor leader on the trip west, but no new answers were found for the problem of how to proceed when 6-8 muscleman Greg Jackson gets in foul trouble.

Bob Shapland, 6-2 Champaign (Central) junior, sparked a come-from-behind 86-77 victory over Michigan State with a solid second-half relief performance, then started and played nearly the entire game against Southern California, who nipped the Illini, 65-62, in overtime. Illini lost its tourney opener, 59-58, to Washington State.

Shapland is expected to get the starting nod against the Badgers ahead of Rick Howat, 6-2 Downers Grove (North) junior.

Illinois rallied from a 10-point deficit to win against the Spartans as Jackson played the final 14 minutes with four fouls. But against Southern Cal Jackson picked up a fifth foul with about three minutes to play and the Trojans rallied to tie, then win in overtime.

The Illini have rebounding problems with Jackson on the sidelines and could have trouble against a tall Wisconsin squad even with the big guy in the lineup. Coach John Powless' squad will enjoy a slight height advantage and has several lanky jumpers in reserve as well.

Wisconsin has been inconsistent to date as Powless searches for his best lineup form among eight or nine capable performers. Clarence Sherrod, 6-1 junior guard, leads the Badgers with an 18 point per game average, while Albert Henry, 6-9 senior center, is averaging 13.3 points and leads club in rebounding.

Three sophomores, 6-6 forward Lloyd Adams, 6-5 forward Lee Olen, and 6-3 guard Tom Barao, are expected to draw the other starting assignments.

Illinois will return to the Assembly Hall next Tuesday evening in an 8 p.m. contest against Indiana. Tickets are still available for that game, which will be preceded by a 5:45 p.m. battle between Parkland Junior College of Champaign and Springfield Junior College.

Indiana, who opens Big Ten play at home Saturday against Michigan State, recorded a 4-5 pre-conference mark, but four of those losses were to nationally ranked teams, Kentucky, Ohio University, Notre Dame, and Missouri.

In their first NFL season, the Browns edged the Los Angeles Rams 30-28 in 1970 on Lou Groza's field goal for the league championship.

Now with Groza as an assistant, the Browns will fight it out with the Vikings, in their first title game, for a trip to the Super Bowl Jan. 11 in New Orleans.

A crowd of more than 47,000 and a national television audience will see the teams play at icy Metropolitan Stadium. Temperatures are expected to be in the high teens. No snow is forecast.

Odds maker figure the Browns as nine-point underdogs in their NFL finale, partly because of Minnesota's 51-3 trouncing of Cleveland during the regular season.

"We did a miserable job the last time we met," Browns coach Blanton Collier said. "And at the same time they had a great game. I hope this isn't repeated either way."

Joe Kapp passed for three touchdowns to lanky wide receiver Gene Washington. Don Cockcroft kicked the Cleveland field goal.

Schembechler Ailment Called Heart Attack

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — It was a heart attack that kept University of Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler in the hospital during the New Year's Day Rose Bowl game with the University of Southern California, doctors said Friday.

Earlier it had been billed as a stomach ailment. The hospital described the heart attack as "mild."

A spokesman for St. Luke's Hospital said Schembechler is expected to remain here for at least two weeks before heading home.

Schembechler, 40, was stricken last Tuesday with what was said to be stomach pains, seemed to be getting better, then was hospitalized Thursday and missed seeing his team lose 10-3 to Southern Cal.

Purdue's Coach Suspends Pair

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue coach George King suspended top scorer Larry Weatherford and center Bill Franklin Friday from the Boilermaker basketball squad for one game.

The game will be Purdue's Big Ten opener Saturday night at Iowa.

King said Weatherford, Evansville, Ind., junior who is averaging 17.7 points a game, and Franklin, Norfolk, Va., sophomore, violated curfew Tuesday night after the final game of the Holiday Festival tournament in New York. Purdue lost to St. Bonaventure in the title game.

Carlen Gets Job At Texas Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Jim Carlen, whose West Virginia Mountaineers football team fell only to No. 2 Penn State in the season just ended, became head football coach of Texas Tech Friday.

The formal announcement of Carlen's hiring came after a week of strong speculation in Tech circles that the former Georgia Tech linebacker would be named and would accept.

Robert C. Bowden, chief of staff to the past four years, was named to succeed Carlen as head coach.

A major struggle in the game will involve Minnesota's hard rushing front of Carl Eller, Gary Larsen, Alan Page and Jim Marshall against Cleveland's seasoned offensive line.

Browns' quarterback Bill Nelson was dumped only 17 times in the regular season and only once last Sunday when the Browns leveled Dallas 38-14 in the Eastern Conference final. Minnesota's front four had 49 regular season sacks and got to the quarterback three times in a 23-20 Western Conference final over Los Angeles.

Nelson, awesome running back Leroy Kelly and the talented passing trio of Paul Warfield, Milt Morin and Gary Collins will be up against a record setting defense. The Vikings set NFL records for least points allowed in a season, 133, and least yardage, an average of 194.3.

Minnesota's offense, led by the unpredictable Kapp, racked up the most points in the NFL, 379.

Franklin Races To 82-62 Margin In MSM Action

FRANKLIN — The Franklin Flashes rolled to an easy 82-62 MSM Conference triumph over Pawnee Friday evening, with 11 players hitting the scoring column.

Franklin, now 5-6 overall and 2-3 in conference play, led 22-10 after eight minutes. Pawnee played the Flashes, who downed Pawnee 57-46 in the Waverly Tournament earlier this week, even in the second stanza but Franklin rolled up a 24-10 margin in the third quarter and won going away.

The winners fired at a 45 per cent clip to Pawnee's 46 per cent rate, with the losers, now 1-6 overall, holding a 39-31 board advantage. Franklin had 14 turnovers to 24 by Pawnee.

Terry McDannald whipped in 19 points and brother John added 14 for the victors, while Bill Langheim took game honors with 22.

Athletic Figures In Gambling Raids

DETROIT (AP) — Federal authorities dug deeper Friday into what they called "a national scheme" involving well-known football, baseball and horse racing figures following the arrest of 10 men in gambling raids in Michigan and Nevada.

No widely known sports figures were arrested in the New Year's Day raids, but the U.S. attorney's office said it had gained information linking professional athletics with gambling.

Brickley said Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, onetime pitching ace of the St. Louis Cardinals, and his Las Vegas motel room were searched under a warrant which officials said allowed them to look for "wagering records, wagering paraphernalia, consisting of bet slips, rundown sheets, account sheets, recap sheets, money used in or derived from a wagering operation" and other instruments.

Dean, who was not held, said in Las Vegas he was questioned about people he knew.

"I can't be involved in it because I don't know anything about it," he said.

Dean said he had met briefly one of those arrested, "but I don't know these guys, I never heard of them."

"In a year I come across a lot of people. I don't always know who I am talking with."

Brickley told the warrant to search Dean and his room was obtained "on evidence implying he had a connection" with some of those arrested. He declined to say whether anything had been confiscated in the search of Dean.

Brickley told a news conference: "As a result of these raids, the government now has in its possession a great deal of records and additional evidence linking with this conspiracy."

Hatcher Gets 6, Barry Throttles East Pike 70-49

MILTON — Hot-shooting Barry stopped the area's leading scorer and rolled to a decisive 70-49 Pike County Conference triumph over East Pike Friday night.

Barry led by only six points at the end of the first quarter but outscored East Pike, now 3-5 overall and 2-3 in league play, 23-9 in the second stanza for a 42-22 intermission spread. East Pike never threatened in the final half.

East Pike's Greg Hatcher was held without a field goal and managed only six free throws for his lowest one-game total in at least two seasons. Hatcher was averaging 27 points per outing before the game.

Barry outshot East Pike 53 per cent to 27 per cent from the field.

Kerr Resigns As Suns Coach

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Kerr resigned Friday as coach of the Phoenix Suns and general manager Jerry Colangelo said he would take over as interim coach of the National Basketball Association team.

Kerr said he had done all he could to make the Suns a winner, "and in failing feel it is in the best interest of the ball club to step down at this time."

The Suns are in fifth place in the western division with a 15-23 record.

Colangelo said Kerr would remain with the Suns as their chief scout and no permanent successor might be hired until the playing season is over.

Small College Basketball Poll Lists Shakeups

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Winning is beginning to pay off for Howard Payne as the Yellow Jackets moved up to sixth place in the Associated Press weekly small college basketball poll Friday.

Although only a modest jump, the team from Brownwood, Tex., made the biggest upward move among the Top Ten teams after being ranked eighth last week. The reason? A 12-0 record, giving the Yellow Jackets four more victories than other teams in the top 20.

There was little changing of places among the first 10 teams in the balloting by a national panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Kentucky Wesleyan retained its first place lead, although its lead dipped from 92 to 22 points over No. 2 Stephen F. Austin. Wesleyan had five top votes and 198 points after an idle week. Austin, with three first place votes, had 176 points after winning one game.

Ashland stayed in third place. Gannon and Youngstown picked up one top vote apiece and each rose one place to fourth and fifth, respectively. Trinity dropped three places to seventh. North Carolina A&T fell a place to eighth and Oglethorpe and Louisiana Tech stayed at No. 9 and 10, respectively.

which Brickley said resulted in the confiscation of $820,000 in cash and checks, three automobiles and "a vast quantity" of betting records.

Fritz Lindstrom, arrested in Las Vegas, and the nine arrested in Michigan were charged with "use of interstate communications facilities in furtherance of gambling" and with conspiracy to violate federal gambling laws.

Lindstrom, whose age and occupation were not known, faced arraignment Friday before a U.S. commissioner in Las Vegas.

Brickley said a 23-man federal grand jury sitting in Detroit soon will hear testimony from sports figures and alleged bookmakers to "determine the effect of their associations." He added that some Michigan businessmen had bet "as much as $10,000 a day with the syndicate."

LA, Dallas In Playoff Bowl Today

MIAMI (AP) — Dallas and Los Angeles, expected by many to fight for the National Football League title, meet Saturday in the Playoff Bowl.

Last weekend's defeated duo from the NFL championship race plan a 3 p.m. EST, kickoff before about 35,000 fans in the Orange Bowl plus a national television (CBS) audience.

The Rams were the talk of pro football when they won 11 straight, but Coach George Allen's clan now rides the depths of a four-game losing streak. The latest blow was a 23-20 playoff setback by Minnesota.

Dallas—always a contender, but never a winner—dropped its game to Cleveland 38-14 to earn another trip to Miami's haven for the also-rans.

St. John's Top Rated At Eldred

ELDRED — Carrollton St. John's has been seeded number one and Kampsville number two for the 23rd annual Eldred Grade School Tournament Jan. 6-9.

First night games pit St. John's against eighth-ranked Kane at 6:45 and Kampsville vs seventh-ranked Alsey at 8:00.

The following evening third-seeded Manchester faces sixth-ranked Eldred at 6:45 and fourth-rated Brussels takes on defending champion and fifth-seeded Fieldon at 8:00.

Chiefs, Oakland Test AFL System

OAKLAND (AP) — For all the complaints that the American Football League's playoff system, instituted this year, was designed mainly to add a couple of extra games to the schedule, it has had one beneficial result:

It has matched the two seemingly-strongest teams in the circuit, the Oakland Raiders and the Kansas City Chiefs, who meet for the title here Sunday.

Because the Raiders and Chiefs are both in the Western Division of their AFL nome of their past struggles have been for the league championship. But the new playoff system, which gave the second-place teams a shot at the title, changed all that.

The Chiefs, who finished second to the Raiders in the West, beat the Eastern champion New York Jets while the Raiders easily brushed aside the Houston Oilers, who finished second in the East. Thus there is little doubt that the Raiders and Chiefs finished the season as the two best teams in the league and that, perhaps, is what a title game is all about.

There are some drawbacks to this matchup, however. The Raiders have already beaten the Chiefs twice this year and thus find themselves in the position of possibly losing the title to a team they have beaten in two out of three meetings.

The Chiefs, for their part, must overcome what is more and more beginning to look like a jinx. In their last eight regular and post-season meetings with the Raiders, they have lost seven times.

Last year, they lost the Western Division playoff and this year they suffered a 27-24 defeat to the Raiders in Kansas City and a 10-6 loss in Oakland.

Ormiston Selected All-Tourney

Jacksonville High school's 6-4 senior center Chad Ormiston received a distinct honor Wednesday when he was picked on the All-Centralia Holiday Tournament team as picked by members of the working press.

Ormiston scored a total of 104 points with 29 against Centralia, 38 against Freeport, 18 against Champaign Central, and 19 against Peoria Spalding, and averaged over ten rebounds per game.

Picked on the first team along with Ormiston were Thornton's Loyd Batts, who set a new tournament scoring record of 142 points (the old mark was 135 points by Bryan Williams of Danville Schlarman in 1960), Dan Beard of Sparta, Tom Halliburton of East Moline and Bill Kossick of New Trier East, a seven-footer.

On the second team were Craig Davis of Champion East Moline, John Cabbas of Homewood - Flossmoor, Malcolm Davis of East Moline, Dave Swanson of Homewood - Flossmoor and Ken Wolbeck of Peoria Sp

Challenge Bowl Boosted By Ara

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Notre Dame's Coach Ara Parseghian suggested Friday the formation of a college Challenge Bowl to select the official national champion each year.

"The two top teams would be chosen on a vote of college athletic directors, coaches, sports writers and broadcasters," Parseghian said. "Then they would meet at a selected spot for the title."

"If the plan were in effect this season, the game might involve Texas and Penn State, both unbeaten. Or possibly Ohio State and Southern California would be considered."

"I think it is the only solution."

The controversy over the national championship was heightened during the past campaign when President Nixon arbitrarily presented Texas a plaque as the No. 1 team after the Longhorns beat Arkansas Dec. 6 at Fayetteville, 15-14.

This evoked strong protests from Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State and partisans of his team which had extended an unbeaten streak over three seasons.

With most of the top-ranking teams in action in the bowl games, The Associated Press, which originated the national rankings, postponed its final poll until after the Jan. 1 games. The result of the poll will be announced Sunday.

The No. 1 ranked Texas Longhorns, with a modern version of the Four Horsemen in the backfield, won a 21-17 thriller from Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl for their 20th straight victory.

Penn State extended its unbeaten string to 30 games with a 10-3 triumph over Missouri in the Orange Bowl. Southern California, unbeaten but once tied, edged Michigan 10-3 in the Rose Bowl. Mississippi upset Arkansas 27-22 in the Sugar Bowl.

UCLA was embarrassed by Ivy League Princeton in the Bruin Classic final at Los Angeles and very nearly suffered an upset. The Bruins won 76-75 in the last three seconds on Sidney Wicks' jump shot and extended their season's unbeaten string to eight games.

New Mexico State was the best by far of the major Rocky Mountain Independents.

Washington's loss came in an 83-73 decision over Oregon in the finals Tuesday night for the Far West Classic at Portland. The Huskies open regular conference play Jan. 10 when they host Stanford. Washington is the only Pacific-8 team beside UCLA in the Associated Press top 10 rankings and it's regarded as a strong contender for the conference title, which is up for grabs now that the Lew Alcinor has graduated from UCLA.

The Huskies, with five returning starters, lead the conference in experience, and their coach, Tex Winter, delivered them their best record last year (13-13) since 1962. Winter joined the Huskies last season after 15 years at Kansas State in which he led the Wildcats to a 262-117 record and eight conference championships.

Washington played Seattle at home and won last month 86-78. The Huskies take on Yale Saturday, and do not regard the contest lightly. The Ivy League Elis amazed everyone by beating Louisiana State 97-94 in the Rainbow Classic finals at Honolulu, despite Pete Maravich's 34 points.

Jacksonville, kingpins among the Southern Independents last season, is unbeaten in eight games. The Dolphins were 17-7 last year.

In other games Saturday, Rice hosts No. 4 North Carolina, 8-1, after beating Bowling Green 89-72 in the Carolina Classic. Kent State is at No. 5 Ohio University, 7-1, which is still smarting from its 73-65 upset by the obscure Texas Longhorns in the opening game of the Hurricane Classic in Miami. Sixth-ranked Tennessee, 6-1 after a milder upset, opens SEC play by hosting Mississippi State. The Vols were shot down 69-68 by unbeaten but unranked Niagara in the opening round of the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City. Eighth-ranked Houston is at Hawaii.

In the Second Ten, Davidson, the Charlotte Invitational winner over Syracuse, is at the Citadel; and No. 12 St. Bonaventure hosts Baldwin Wallace. The Bonnies remained unbeaten in even games by whipping Purdue, No. 17, 91-75 in the finals of the ECAC Holiday Festival in New York. Columbia, No. 16, hosts Cornell. Columbia suffered its first loss of the season, an 89-75 decision against unranked LaSalle, in the finals of the Quaker City tournament. Purdue, 7-3 opens defense of its Big Ten title at Iowa, 4-4, Marquette, No. 8, hosts Detroit; and Southern Cal, No. 19, entertains Florida State.

Third-ranked South Carolina, 14th ranked Pennsylvania and 20th ranked Colorado are idle this weekend.

Top-ranked Kentucky opens defense of its Southeastern Conference championship against lowly Mississippi while UCLA, a vulnerable No. 2, hosts Notre Dame in college basketball Saturday night.

Adolph Rupp's Wildcats, unbeaten in eight games, are expected to dispose of Ole Miss with ease. Mississippi's 80-61 Senior Bowl victory at Mobile over South Alabama Tuesday boosted the Rebels' season record to 5-4 but they're still 0-2 in conference play.

UCLA, struggling to defend its third straight national championship, might have its problems with Notre Dame. The Irish, 7-3 and ranked 13th nationally, lost to No. 3 South Carolina 84-83 for the Sugar Bowl Classic Tuesday and by only 102-100 to Kentucky last Saturday.

UCLA was embarrassed by Ivy League Princeton in the Bruin Classic final at Los Angeles and very nearly suffered an upset. The Bruins won 76-75 in the last three seconds on Sidney Wicks' jump shot and extended their season's unbeaten string to eight games.

Football Rules To Be Changed?

By MARTY RALBOVSKY

NEA Sports Writer

(Second of Four Articles.)

NEW YORK (NEA)—As

professional football embarks on the 1970s, basking in financial stability and public popularity, it is sobering to remember that just eight years ago a team called the New York Titans was playing in a place called the Polo Grounds and the best seats in the house were occupied by pigeons.

They were owned by the late

Harry Wismer then, and they lost a lot of games and, on occasion, they even got paid.

Three players customarily shared the same towel after workouts, and Wismer's an-ouncements of paid attendance was as eagerly awaited by the working press as the end of the game itself.

Once, on a cold and wet

November day, Wismer announced a crowd of 4,987 and one writer bounded out of the pressbox and walked the aisles, counting spectators in the flesh.

"Wismer announced a crowd of 4,987 people," he wrote the next day, "but 4,657 of them came disguised as empty seats."

The Titans, of course, later became the Jets and the Jets became world champions and now, as the game marches triumphantly into a new decade, one wonders what is left for an encore. With the evolution of a new league and expansion of the old one, the game wrapped its tentacles around 14 new cities during the '60s and the cyclops called TV took care of the rest.

Further expansion, into Hawaii and the Pacific Northwest, is a possibility during the next decade, according to Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Ticket prices are going up, and so are player salaries, but as long as Philadelphiaans are willing to pay $12 to watch the Eagles, the possibility of financial crisis remains slim.

It has been suggested that, during the 1970s, the biggest changes will occur within the game itself.

Subscribing to that feeling is one Paul Vernon Hornung, who was known to challenge the status quo in his day with the Green Bay Packers.

"I think, during the 1970s, pro football will follow the lead of the colleges and stop the clock after every play," says Hornung, now a Chicago

TV sportscaster. "It's a very simple decision to make, but it would have a tremendous effect on the game. Stopping the clock after every play enables both teams to get in so many more plays, it would be like adding an extra quarter to the game. I think it will happen, and very soon.

"I also think something will be done about preseason games.

I know, from a player's viewpoint, going out and playing for 100 a game is tough to take.

I think that the number of pre-season games will be cut down during the '70s and the regular season will start earlier, like the first week of September.

"That means it will end earlier, too, and maybe teams won't have to be playing championship games in 13-below-zero weather."

Hornung also contends that the players themselves will have a stronger voice about what transpires during the '70s than they did in the '60s.

"Let's face it, kids coming

RARE RECORDS GIVEN

NEW YORK (AP) — A collection of 9,000 operatic and concert recordings—featuring almost every vocal artist of importance in this century—has been presented to the Research Library of the Performing Arts at Lincoln Center.

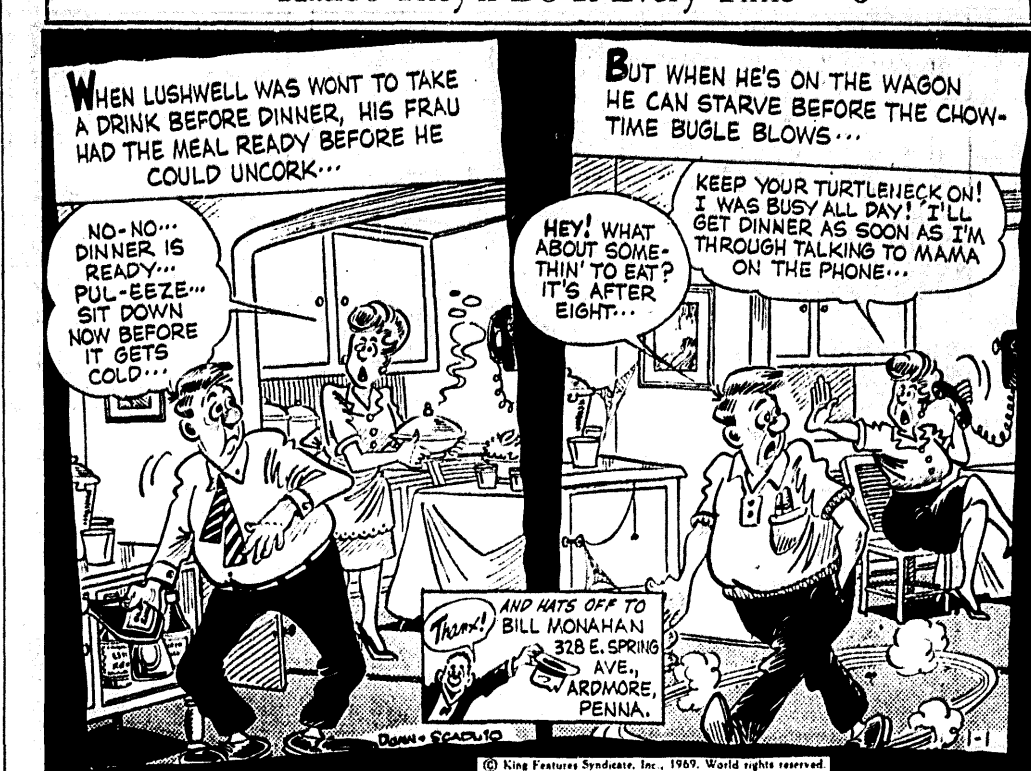

Among the more notable rarities are three 1902 Pathe sides recorded by Enrico Caruso in Milan, a 1902 Chaliapin recording of the "Calf of Gold" aria from "Faust" done in St. Petersburg for the Gramophone and Typewriter Co. and an equally scarce 1903 G & T disk of Fella Litvinne in Brunnhilde's "Ho-jo-to-ho" from "Die Walkure" with Alfred Cortot at the piano. The gift is from Lauder Greenway, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Opera Assn.

GRANT SAVES GROUP
NEW YORK (AP) — With the announcement last week of a $15,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, the Group for Contemporary Music at Columbia University can breathe for another season.

The group has existed for eight years mostly due to grants from the Rockefeller Foundation and Alice M. Ditson Fund in the music department. It was the country's first university-based ensemble performing new music. Its main goal is to present contemporary programs not easily found in other concert halls.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "You mean this is going to be on 'Candid Camera'—on television?" asked the fat woman after she viewed the nude male model.

"No, no, it's going to be a model."

HOPPER & HAMM

movie," replied the irrepressible Allen Funt.

The long time guru of "Candid Camera" may now have reached the limit of his irrepressibility. He has produced a movie for United Artists called "What Do You Say to a Naked Lady?" The film sets about to answer that question. Also, what do you say to a naked man, as in the case of the fat woman mentioned above.

Funt used his old "Candid Camera" formula of recording the reactions of normal citizens in outrageous situations. Only this time he has employed nudity and sex situations. The result is expectedly hilarious, but Funt claims it is also an exercise in psychology. United Artists also hopes it will be an exercise in profits.

"For 10 years I've been wanting to make a movie," remarked Funt. "Always the answer from the film companies was the same: episodic pictures don't sell. The same example was brought up by the executives every time; they all said there was an episodic picture called 'Tales of Manhattan' that didn't make any money."

"By a very fortunate circumstance, 'Candid Camera' went off the air just at the time that the sex revolution, or new era of permissiveness, was beginning to happen. It also coincided with the new kind of cinema, in which the standard formulas no longer prevailed."

"Two years ago I went to United Artists and gave them a two-sentence outline of what I wanted to do, telling them could deliver it for under half a million dollars. They said, 'Go ahead.'"

Unfettered by censorship, Funt put his rampant imagination to work. What would happen if a nude girl stepped off an elevator and asked a passing man for directions? How would motorists react to a nude hitchhiker? What would students in college sex education class say if the teacher turned out to be an undressed beauty? That sort of thing.

Funt spent $485,000 photographing such ideas.

"What Do You Say to a Naked Lady?" features explicit language as well as nudity, hence the X rating seems inevitable. "But United Artists hasn't submitted it for a rating yet, because they expect the

Camera Angles

By IRVING DESFOR

AP Newsfeatures

And a SNAP-HAPPY NEW

YEAR to you too!

As we start to fill the fresh pages of the '70 photo album, it's a good time to make good resolutions . . . and a better time to start better photo habits.

For one thing, I think, present tendency is to overshoot run-of-the-mill subjects. We're telling ourselves that if we shoot a lot, maybe one will come out "right." This philosophy is okay if you change your camera angle of the exposure or the illumination for each click of the shutter. It's questionable when there is no visible improvement which triggers the extra shooting.

There is an exception, of course, if the subject is a person, a pet or a group and you're trying to capture an elusive expression, a mood or a subtle change in composition. In that case you won't be getting merely duplicate pictures.

Next, how about renewed determination to make more meaningful pictures by studying each situation searchingly before you press the button. Look at the background to see if any distracting details can be eliminated and how close you can come. It will simplify and strengthen a picture's theme.

Another annual reminder is a plea to take care of photo chores as you go along instead of permitting them to pile up to be attended to . . . "later." That usually means the pile gets larger and good intentions diminish. So let's acknowledge human nature and declare a moratorium on what is pending—but start fresh with 1970.

Active camera fans have negatives to identify and file; prints and enlargements to make and sort; color slides to organize; movies to edit and splice. Taken currently and individually, each new batch of picture taking can be handled easily.

Start off by eliminating all bad pictures in the group. Be tough! You really waste time and space by hanging on to pictures that require an apology. Actually, by discarding faulty pictures, the general average of your photograph is raised considerably—and nobody misses pictures they don't see.

The remaining photos should be put in story-telling or chronological order, identified and dated. Finally, each set belongs in a place of its own for future viewing or ready reference. Negatives are valuable and vulnerable with handling, so they deserve protective custody in a file cabinet. The best place for prints is in an album; color slides belong in trays or magazines and separate movie reels should be spliced together on a larger reel.

One of the likely dividends on completing a sorting-filing-viewing chore along with the satisfaction of accomplishment, is that it provides encouragement needed to tackle the accumulation of previous shooting sessions. It makes one feel even more virtuous to dig into that old pile and do something about it . . . and one success leads to another.

So here's to a fresh photographic 1970. May it be pleasurable as well as productive!

Sun Is Best Bleacher Of Yellowed Pillowcases

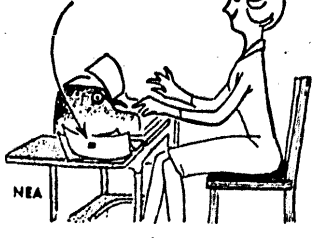

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell C.V., who has sheets and pillow cases that are yellowed from years of storage, that recently my mother gave me a pair of pillowcases that had been stored away and never used. They were quite yellow. I washed them and let them dry in the sun. If this does not do the trick, wet them again and again and let them dry in the sun each time. Mine are white as new and without using bleach of any kind. Years ago our ancestors bleached white clothes by washing, leaving the wet articles on clean grass to dry and even sprinkling them a few times. This must be done in the sun. I think a too-hot dryer yellows them.—NORA

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—After making Barbie doll clothes, I cannot iron them, as they are too small. Does anyone have a solution for this?—JO ANN

DEAR POLLY—My husband solved the problem of my working copy sliding off a metal typewriter stand by using a small magnet to hold the papers to the stand. This works beautifully and might help some of our office girls and those of us at home who have metal typing tables.

With the popularity of neighborhood garage and rummage sales, a good suggestion for keeping track of items belonging to the different women who are having the sale is to use a different color of paper for marking price tags for the items to be sold. At the end of the sale, each girl picks her own color and totals her sales.—NANCY

DEAR POLLY—I am an arthritic and have to sleep on a large, firm, orthopedic matress. I found it difficult to tuck in the bottom sheet but now use an 81x108-inch sheet crosswise. I have enough to cover the mattress up to the head and down to the foot and plenty to tuck in the sides, with no wrinkles. Now it is not so difficult and tiring to make the bed.—HELEN

DEVELOP CARPET TO SAVE TURKEY EGGS

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Turkeys lay their eggs standing up. Chickens, who are smarter, squat.

The result: 20 to 30 per cent of eggs laid in a given turkey flock are cracked or badly damaged by the fall. Chickens don't have that problem.

Michigan State University poultry experts have designed a shock-absorbing rubber "carpet" to reduce the egg casualties and improve the turkey birth rate.

"The average drop is about 10 inches," Richard I. Divilbiss, MSU's agricultural research editor said Monday. "There's a tremendous loss of money in cracked turkey eggs every year."

The first practical internal-combustion engine using gasoline for fuel was produced in France in 1860.

THE DOCTOR SAYS SLE May Affect Any Part Of Victim's Body

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Q—My daughter, 24, has systemic lupus erythematosus. What causes it? Can it be cured? What are the complications?

A—One type of SLE is caused by a defective gene. It can be inherited through ancestors, not necessarily a parent, who suffer from any one of the collagen diseases — SLE, scleroderma, rheumatoid arthritis, dermatomyositis, Hashimoto's thyroiditis and others. There is no specific cure for this type. Another type may be caused by such drugs as penicillin, streptomycin, tetracycline, griseofulvin, sulfonamides, hydralazine, phenylbutazone, procainamide, propylthiouracil and others.

All victims of SLE should avoid exposure to direct sunlight. Antimalarial drugs, hydrocortisone and salicylates may be helpful. Since persons with this disease do not tolerate surgery well, operations should be attempted only as a lifesaving measure. The disease may affect any part of the body.

Q—I once read that pregnancy could trigger SLE. Could birth control pills have the same effect? What effect would cigarette smoking have on SLE? A—I know of no case of this disease being precipitated by contraceptive pills. Smoking would have no specific effect on SLE but, if the victim has any pulmonary involvement, he should most certainly refrain from smoking.

Q—Is it unusual to have several years of remission between bouts of SLE? Is it unusual for lupus arthritis to persist even during a remission?

A—The completeness and duration of the remissions are subject to wide variations. Involvement of the joints may persist while others manifestations decrease or clear up.

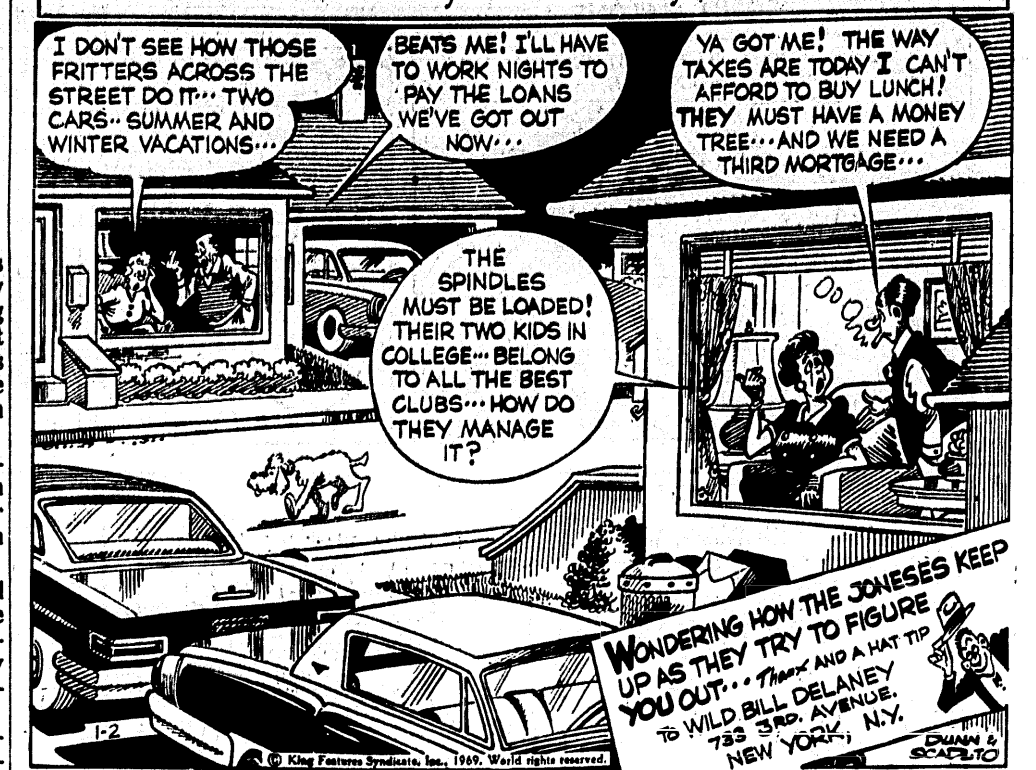

Q—My husband has been taking Ismelin, Hygroton and Dyrenium for several years. What are they for and what are the side effects?

A—Guanethidine (Ismelin) is given to reduce the blood pressure. Its side effects include dizziness, weakness, diarrhea, nasal stuffiness and dryness of the mouth. Chlorthalidone (Hygroton) is a diuretic that also helps control the blood pressure. Too large a dose may cause weakness, dizziness, nausea and headache. Triamterene (Dyren-um) is a diuretic. Its side effects include nausea, headache and weakness.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D. in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Hatlo's They'll Do It Every Time

Hades, Incorporated Business As Usual

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a dark day in hell, the darkest of the year.

At the main gate to Hades the usual long lines of sinners waiting to be admitted had vanished. The box office count had fallen to an alarming low.

It was a situation to depress even the foulest fiend. And frankly, some of the foulest fiends were more than depressed. They were verging on panic. So a group of them held an impromptu meeting.

"I haven't had a new sinner to stick my pitchfork into for at least two days," complained one. "And it's no fun jabbing our hardened sinners. Their lies are so tough they blunt the tines on my pitchfork."

"What I'm worried about is that our place might even be shut down," mumbled a toothless senior fiend, who had a face as wrinkled as a dried prune. "I'd hate to have to look for work at my age. Who wants to hire a 4,012-year-old fiend?"

The worried fiends thereupon decided to appoint a committee to consult with the top man in hell—the devil himself.

They found old Satan seated on a throne of pure anthracite sewing a button on his crimson cloak while he lit up a big fat cigar with a hot coal held in his long forked tail.

HAROLD LONG NEW PRESIDENT OF PIKE FAIR BOARD

PITTSFIELD — At a recent dinner and organizational meeting of the Pike County Fair board, new officers were appointed. Bill Lowry, son of the late Ed Lowry of Pittsfield, was appointed to fill his father's unexpired term. Other officers are Harold Long of Pleasant Hill, president; C. O. Scott, Pittsfield, vice president; Robert Galloway, Pleasant Hill, secretary; John Robertson, Rockport, treasurer; and Jim Leeds of Rockport, assistant secretary.

The fair, held each year in Pleasant Hill, is free of debt on all buildings. The Pike County Fair will be held a month earlier in 1970, July 20 through 25.

Mrs. Ed Lowry of Pittsfield and Mrs. Russell Garner of Rockport, who was chairman of the queen contest committee, and the Fair Queen, Miss Vickie Stickman, were special guests at the dinner meeting.

AFRICAN GUEST IN ROODHOUSE HOME

ROODHOUSE — Roodhouse had an African visitor for the Christmas holidays. Joseph A. Amplaw from Ghana was the guest of Randy and Ascension Day, who were home visiting Mrs. Ralph Day and daughter Judy.

Joe Amplaw is a first-year student at the Yale University Divinity School. He arrived in the United States in September from Ghana. He left behind him a wife, Florence, and three children. This visit to Illinois was the first time Joe left the New Haven, Conn., vicinity. Randy's wife and Joe saw snow for the first time last week.

In Ghana Joe taught school for three years and served as an associate pastor at a Methodist church.

"Happy New Year, fellow-fiends," he said to the delegation.

"What's happy about it?" grumbled one.

The Prince of Devils listened in silence as the members of the delegation explained their fears. Then in a voice like a series of thunderclaps he said:

"I wish you fiends would quit sticking your noses into what is basically a management matter—and leave the worrying to me. There is no real depression in hell, and there never will be as long as I am in charge."

"What we are facing here is not a permanent shrinkage of customers but a temporary recession. If you didn't have such short memories, you'd realize the reason."

"What is the reason, boss?" asked one of his major minions, who had a tail almost as long as the devil's.

"Why, because it is New Year's Day on earth," Satan replied testily. "Practically every erring human being on this day decides to reform his evil ways and become a saint."

"So he makes a resolution to give up sinning and adopt all the heavenly virtues."

"But won't that put us out of business, chief?" asked a young fiend.

"Hardly," said Satan contemptuously. "It takes a lot more than a simple good resolution to get a human being into heaven. As the fellow said, the road to hell is paved with good temptations."

"I've doubled my road crew of temptation salesmen. By the end of this week, most people will forget all their high-sounding resolves, succumb to the new brand of 1970 temptations I'm featuring, and begin hitting the highway to here."

"So start lighting the pitfires right now. Soon you'll be so busy torturing a new crop of sinners that you'll probably try to demand overtime, a proposal which I don't mind telling you in advance I will regard as downright fiendish and totally unacceptable in a well-run hell."

Is Treasure

Being an Oriental actress is one thing. Being one of the finest Oriental actresses in Hollywood is something else. Lassetie is really something else. Lu is really playing the role of a schoolteacher in San Francisco's Chinatown in a four-part story which was filmed "Lassetie" in the Bay City. Part One will be broadcast 6-6:30 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 4.

Rich Voice Makes Bryant Hot Property

NEW YORK (NEA) — If angels don't sing like Browning Bryant, they should get out of the heavenly choir.

He's a just-teenager (he was 13 last January) from Pickens, S.S.C., who occasionally leaves his dogs and beloved Southern cooking behind to come north, appear on the Kraft Music Hall, and raise that fantastically beautiful voice in song.

He began singing for clubs "down home," as he says. Eventually word spread about his voice and he traveled to North Carolina to appear on a TV show there. He was heard by an agent who signed him and brought him this far.

His school life, however, has been affected.

He went to a new school this past term and was followed by the female student body everywhere he went. He was 20 minutes late for class. The principal called Browning's mother.

"He's a nice boy and it's not his fault," the principal explained, "but you'll have to get this young Elvis Presley out of here."

Here's How

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the 1970s, we might consider reviving the arts of the tinker, suggests a homemaker.

She'll wager that everyone has a little thing in disrepair that an itinerant mender of small articles might fix in a jiffy.

An experienced do-it-yourselfer will run into some repairs that might stymie him—the repair of a pane of glass or door lock—because he doesn't have the proper tools to do the job, and he cannot find anyone who will do a small job.

Time was when the tinker pulled his truck up to homes where he parked while he sharpened knives, repaired utensils, made new door keys. Today, he might add to the repertoire. In addition, he might patch a roof or a gauged wall and install a few shelves. Many people would welcome someone who would hang pictures for them.

A traveling repairman would eliminate store overhead and he would save transportation costs, time and energy for his customers, who must deliver and pick up certain items that need repair.

Small repairs can cause large family feuds. One woman appeared at a glazier's with a storm door that had a broken glass. She explained that her trip was the culmination of two years of family arguments. She finally had removed the door and had driven the 15 miles to have a new pane of glass installed. Her husband always had been too busy.

Other women in the shop nodded sympathetically. They carried picture frames, bedroom mirrors and window pane measurements. It took the glazier five minutes to cut glass for two picture frames, but it had taken the woman six months to get them to his store. She had been carrying the frames in her car trunk, but she did not have the time to do anything about them.

If a modern-day tinker would follow the pattern of the old-time traveling expert, he could pull his truck into a neighborhood each day and spend the entire day putting the homes in repair. He might be hailed by small flags in colors to indicate what is needed.

In his truck, he might carry an estimated quantity of glass, plaster, lumber and so on.

The itinerant worker will not dismay local workers who are too busy to do small things, even in their shops. As one plumber put it, "I must get $6 for a service call even though installing a washer may be a few minutes work. I feel embarrassed taking the money, but a special call for a little thing may take me away from a bigger job..."

Ditto carpenters, who point out they are too busy to put up a few shelves. They must charge too much to do such a job. In addition to travel time, they must keep a helper busy. They must do their thing in a bigger way. "I'll take a small order when things are slow, but if something big comes along, I'll have to disappoint the customer," one carpenter explained. Architects keep track of good carpenters and try to keep them busy so they are always available for important jobs. This may compound the problem.

In many areas, in recent years, the slip cover and upholstery business has been conducted by telephone to the satisfaction of homemakers. Stores send representatives to city apartment dwellers and suburban home owners after canvassing by telephone. They arrive with fabric swatches, tape measure, shears. They measure the furniture, cut a pattern on the spot, and return with the slipcover within a short time. If furniture is to be upholstered, they take it to their shop.

The alternative for many women has been to deliver a chair to the local upholsterer for an estimate or the work. The biggest concession some upholsterers will make is that "if you want to bring it in, I'll do it when I can get to it."

That time lapse could be a year. One woman picked up a chair at an upholsterer's after waiting 10 months, but he had warned her. A telephone canvasser had persuaded her to give them the job, and the busy upholsterer was happy to see the chair go. He needed the space.

Local upholsterers often do not have time to do one chair because they are doing entire rooms or entire houses. They don't want to risk losing a big job for a small one.

The plain truth is that there aren't enough trained upholsterers for the amount of work available, one upholsterer said. Stores that canvass homes for work, round up upholsterers who want neither to operate a business of their own nor to work full time for anyone. There are enough of these part-timers for stores to be able to promise quick delivery.

Here's How

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In the 1970s, we might consider reviving the arts of the tinker, suggests a homemaker.

She'll wager that everyone has a little thing in disrepair that an itinerant mender of small articles might fix in a jiffy.

An experienced do-it-yourselfer will run into some repairs that might stymie him—the repair of a pane of glass or door lock—because he doesn't have the proper tools to do the job, and he cannot find anyone who will do a small job.

Time was when the tinker pulled his truck up to homes where he parked while he sharpened knives, repaired utensils, made new door keys. Today, he might add to the repertoire. In addition, he might patch a roof or a gauged wall and install a few shelves. Many people would welcome someone who would hang pictures for them.

A traveling repairman would eliminate store overhead and he would save transportation costs, time and energy for his customers, who must deliver and pick up certain items that need repair.

Small repairs can cause large family feuds. One woman appeared at a glazier's with a storm door that had a broken glass. She explained that her trip was the culmination of two years of family arguments. She finally had removed the door and had driven the 15 miles to have a new pane of glass installed. Her husband always had been too busy.

Other women in the shop nodded sympathetically. They carried picture frames, bedroom mirrors and window pane measurements. It took the glazier five minutes to cut glass for two picture frames, but it had taken the woman six months to get them to his store. She had been carrying the frames in her car trunk, but she did not have the time to do anything about them.

If a modern-day tinker would follow the pattern of the old-time traveling expert, he could pull his truck into a neighborhood each day and spend the entire day putting the homes in repair. He might be hailed by small flags in colors to indicate what is needed.

In his truck, he might carry an estimated quantity of glass, plaster, lumber and so on.

The itinerant worker will not dismay local workers who are too busy to do small things, even in their shops. As one plumber put it, "I must get $6 for a service call even though installing a washer may be a few minutes work. I feel embarrassed taking the money, but a special call for a little thing may take me away from a bigger job..."

But carpenters, who point out they are too busy to put up a few shelves. They must charge too much to do such a job. In addition to travel time, they must keep a helper busy. They must do their thing in a bigger way. "I'll take a small order when things are slow, but if something big comes along, I'll have to disappoint the customer," one carpenter explained. Architects keep track of good carpenters and try to keep them busy so they are always available for important jobs. This may compound the problem.

In many areas, in recent years, the slip cover and upholstery business has been conducted by telephone to the satisfaction of homemakers. Stores send representatives to city apartment dwellers and suburban home owners after canvassing by telephone. They arrive with fabric swatches, tape measure, shears. They measure the furniture, cut a pattern on the spot, and return with the slipcover within a short time. If furniture is to be upholstered, they take it to their shop.

The alternative for many women has been to deliver a chair to the local upholsterer for an estimate or the work. The biggest concession some upholsterers will make is, "If you want to bring it in, I'll do it when I can get to it."

That time lapse could be a year. One woman picked up a chair at an upholsterer's after waiting 10 months, but he had warned her. A telephone canvasser had persuaded her to give them the job, and the busy upholsterer was happy to see the chair go. He needed the space.

Local upholsterers often do not have time to do one chair because they are doing entire rooms or entire houses. They don't want to risk losing a big job for a small one.

The plain truth is that there aren't enough trained upholsterers for the amount of work available, one upholsterer said. Stores that canvass homes for work, round up upholsterers who want neither to operate a business of their own nor to work full time for anyone.

There are enough of these part-timers for stores to be able to promise quick delivery.

Stamps In The News

Since the 1930s, the Republic of China has been constantly guarding against air attack—from the Japanese and Red China. To highlight their vigilance, the Chinese government (now entrenched on Taiwan) has observed an annual Air Defense Day with much fanfare and this year marks the 30th anniversary of the first such day.

In commemoration, the Republic of China has issued a new $1 stamp, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. Depicted on the stamp is a missile firing upward, with an alarm station and radar tracking device in the background.

The stamp is available at your local stamp dealer or stamp department.

First day cover collectors interested in finding out the value of their various envelopes will want to get the revised edition of Elserman's Handbook For First Day Cover Collectors. Within its 100 pages of text and pictures are discussions of every aspect of first day cover collecting. The topics range from the very basics of cancellations to the complex specialties of advanced collectors.

The handbook also contains official instructions for servicing first day covers and the U.S. Post Office Department form letter.

The American First Day Cover Society recommends it to all in the field. In fact, purchases can be made directly from the AFDCS (for $2.50) 1837 West State, Alliance, Ohio 44601.

A beautiful set of stamps featuring famous paintings has just been issued by Romania. Illustrated on the adhesives are: "Portrait of a Venetian Senator" by Tintoretto, "Sofia Kretzulescu" by Tattarescu, "Philip IV" by Diego Velasquez, "Portrait of a Man Reading" by Hans Memling, "Mme. d'Aguesseau" by Vierge-Lebrun, "Portrait of a Woman" by Rembrandt van Rijn. All of the originals are in the National Museum at Bucharest.

Specialists in Great Britain may obtain "Collector's Packs" containing all the stamps issued in 1969 (29 stamps in eight sets). For information write to the General Post Office, Public Relations Department, 23 Howland Street, London W1P 6HQ, England.

STAMPS Magazine reports that devaluation of the French franc has caused a rise in prices for French stamps. Many Frenchmen who are wary of their paper money feel investment in stamps is an excellent hedge against further deterioration of their currency.

One stamp that French dealers are seeking to buy is the Le Havre Exhibition stamp issued in 1929 by overprinting the regular 2 franc. Its face value was 5 francs but was sold only to those who attended the stamp exhibition at Le Havre, meaning only 40,000 were sold.

American catalogs are listing this stamp for approximately $200. Retail price in Paris is $150.

To paraphrase, stamps can be a man's best friend.

SHRUBS DISAPPEAR
LONDON (AP) — Blackberries, wild roses, dogwood and spindle trees are among shrubs which are beginning to disappear from parts of the British countryside.

According to research scientists, farmers needing extra land to increase their output have ploughed up 8,000 miles of hedgerows in which the shrubs flourish.

The scientists foresee some 50 species of flowers and shrubs that might become extinct in 40 or 50 years time.

GOOFING OFF
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — When Eugene Goss was appointed highway commissioner and carried out a surprise inspection of one division, he noticed six men playing horseshoes outside a state building during working hours.

Aides assured him that didn't happen often.

"Maybe," Goss said. "But I'm worried about the one who's really a good player—he must have had plenty of practice."

New Year Action Opens In Fight Near Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — In the first sharp ground action of 1970, an American patrol clashed in a four-hour battle with North Vietnamese infiltrators near the Cambodian border, military spokesmen reported Friday.

The action began just two hours after the Viet Cong's New Year's cease-fire came to an end at 6 p.m. Thursday and last until midnight in the marshes and rice paddies 42 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Americans reported killing 16 of the 50-70 North Vietnamese they encountered in the darkness. The U.S. patrol, whose strength was not reported, suffered no casualties, the spokesmen said.

During the 24-hour allied truce, U.S. forces maintained ground and aerial reconnaissance. Commanders contended that the enemy would take advantage of the truce period to move troops and supplies into place for a possible offensive.

U.S. B2 bombers resumed their raids in South Vietnam, hitting at suspected enemy positions along the Cambodian border.

The U.S. Command reported 12 enemy rocket and mortar attacks in a 24-hour period that ended at 8 a.m. Friday. Some of the attacks came in the Viet Cong's own cease-fire period. The U.S. Command said seven Americans were wounded in the bombardments.

The command said that in all there were 115 enemy attacks on allied forces during the 24-hour allied cease-fire. It added that casualties were involved in 61 of them. Headquarters said 6 Americans and 167 enemy soldiers were killed while 14 Americans were wounded in the truce period.
